MINISTER OF EDUCATION

The first time you read over this Yearbook you will probably skip anything as formal and dull as a foreword. In later days, in a reminiscent or thoughtful mood, you may turn over these pages again. I hope, at such time, that you will on reading this message reflect on your responsibilities as a teacher and consider some of the experiences that make teaching worthwhile.

In these days of change and reorganization, it may seem to some people that we have totally abandoned our past to seek salvation in anything that is new or different. While there is a tendency for educational institutions to be conservative and we must continually search for viable relationships with life as it exists, we have not, in my opinion, ever sought to abandon our past. It is probably as true today as it was many years ago that the things a teacher lives by are the things of the spirit. In this connection, I would hope that faith is still with us - faith in mankind, faith in the final sovereignty of truth and faith in ourselves. I would hope that optimism is still with us - optimism to brighten a dull day or to enhance monotony. I would hope that good-will is still with us for this makes our relationships with our fellows more pleasant and more positive and helps to turn the wheels of existence more smoothly. Finally, I would hope that success is still with us - the success that springs from the knowledge that we have given our best and have not been found wanting. I have mentioned but a few of the things of the spirit. You will be able to add others of your own.

I hope, as you read this page, that either you look forward to success in teaching or are able to contemplate a success that is already underway. That is has been said so often in no way diminishes the fact that the girls and boys of this Province hold the future - yours and mine - in their hands and your responsibilities as a teacher still demand the best that you can offer as they always have.

I wish each of you the best of good fortune in your career.

William G. Davis,
Minister of Education.

January 21, 1970.

Principal's Message

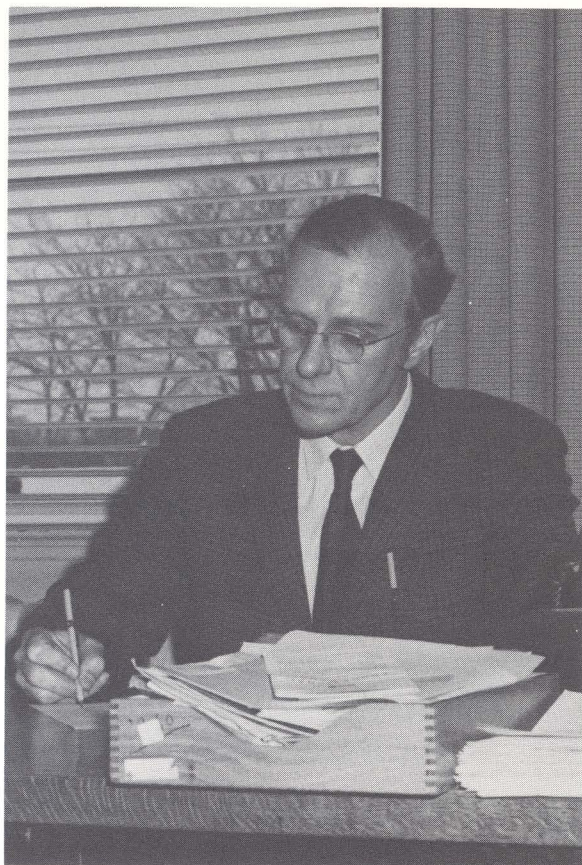

This message is to welcome you into the worthy and challenging profession of teaching for which you have been making industrious preparation during this year at Teachers' College. At the time of writing, I am on leave and therefore have met personally only a few of you. However my leave has permitted me to re-visit several pioneer areas of Ontario and to be reminded of the heritage we Canadians hold as a result of the efforts of these pioneers. Generation gaps have always existed and constantly need bridging.

Education is a way of making the rich past available to each member of the new generation more rapidly than it could be assimilated by unplanned experience. For each of us as teachers, and for each of our pupils, every event of our lives has necessary roots in the past, possible repercussions for the future, as well as intense significance in our present-day living.

As teachers, we are challenged by the forces which are revolutionizing our world, by the enormous expansion in energy sources with implications for both good and evil, and by the acceleration of change in our media of communication and consequent telescoping of distance and time. May we, as teachers, sincerely endeavour to make ourselves adequate to this challenge and to be able to develop each child to his optimum capacity in abilities, attitudes, and appreciation of spiritual and human values.

Through our own efforts and those of our pupils, may we help to make this world a better place in which to live and a worthy heritage for those who will follow us. I wish you joy, success, and satisfaction as you gradually become more competent in "spinning bridges".

J. D. Deyell

Acting Principal's Message

These lines are written at the close of a turbulent decade. Events in the Sixties triggered all the emotions from buoyant celebration to profoundest despair. Though mankind can travel to the moon, he seems unable to conquer the ravages of inequality of opportunity among people. International peace, though more necessary than ever, seems impossible, its proponents dreamers.

Institutions - religious, social, political - have been under attack. Many institutions have been deeply altered during the decade.

One of the institutions which has had to defend and reform itself is the school. Curriculum and methods have been and are under the closest scrutiny. What cannot be pragmatically justified must be eliminated. If necessary, the whole system may be eroded away.

Despite irresponsible excesses and real tragedies, this testing of institutions has been beneficial. Obviously a new order is struggling to be born. And this new order promises to be one of freedom.

It is very difficult to be a teacher at this time in history. And it is doubly difficult to be entering the profession at this time.

Our salvation lies in personal responsibility - a cornerstone of the new order. Each teacher must decide for himself what is the truthful, the responsible course to offer his pupils. He will have to sift the conflicting suggestions, some of them very insistent, which are forced upon him from all sides. Some he will embrace, others he must reject. His standard will be the welfare of his individual pupils - his constant charge.

We believe that the graduates of this year's class at North Bay Teachers' College are well suited to take up this task. May I, on behalf of the whole staff, wish each graduate joy in his career. May you find satisfaction and reward in the challenge of working with young people in the years to come.

May we all witness the birth of the new order heralded by the turbulent Sixties!

A. J. Johnson

Vice-Principal's Message

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

When I was young I used to think that there were in the world some wise old men to whom a young person who was puzzled could go for help and advice. All you had to do was ask and the wisdom of a lifetime would come rolling out to solve your problem.

As I grew older I found an acute shortage of such great sages in the world. Every mature man I thought might qualify had some obvious defect. Those I did consult very often gave pretty mundane answers about things. Often they would throw me back upon my own meagre resources. Of necessity I found that basically I had to solve my own problems. I could consult other people or read up on something, but in the last analysis always I had to use my own judgement and take action.

You no doubt are going through the same process. Though the college masters and the associate teachers can explain and expound at great length, you eventually have to decide for yourself what you will do in the classroom, be it clever or inane, successful or disastrous.

There is a touchstone that will help you, or rather there are two of them. One is to respect the truth; let your lessons express the truth with clarity and jewel-like precision. Refrain from limp and off-hand explanations or glib short-cuts. Respect the body of knowledge you teach.

The other is respect for the pupil. Though it is a truism often stated, many teachers fail to realize that if you don't respect your pupils they will not respect you. Accept them as being able to think for themselves. Listen to their ideas even when wildly different from your own. Assume that each child has a right to deserve your respect for his personality, whatever that personality may be. To condemn, belittle, ridicule or ignore it is to blight that child's development.

You may never be known as a great teacher nor write learned books in pedagogy. You will be honoured, respected, and remembered with affection, however, if you show these two simple forms of respect in all the years of teaching ahead of you. They will help you solve your problems in the absence of the wise old sages.

M.J. Curtis
Vice-Principal

Our President Speaks...

The trust that you imparted on me was a challenging and gratifying experience although not an effortless one.

Any and all transactions enacted in your interest during the academic year were directly resolved by the sincere efforts of your form representatives, staff advisors, Mr. Davies and Miss Stevens, never denying the just and impartial decisions of Mr. Johnson.

We managed to maintain an "Esprit de Corps" amongst the majority and I sincerely anticipate that this team spirit will follow each and every one of us in our confronting future years.

To most, N. B. T. C. was not only a stepping-stone to a profession but a foundation of many flourishing friendships which enriched our academic year. These friendships will not end with the closing of the year, but shall continue throughout our professional lives becoming in some cases, the stability of our future; for there is very little blessing in life without friendship.

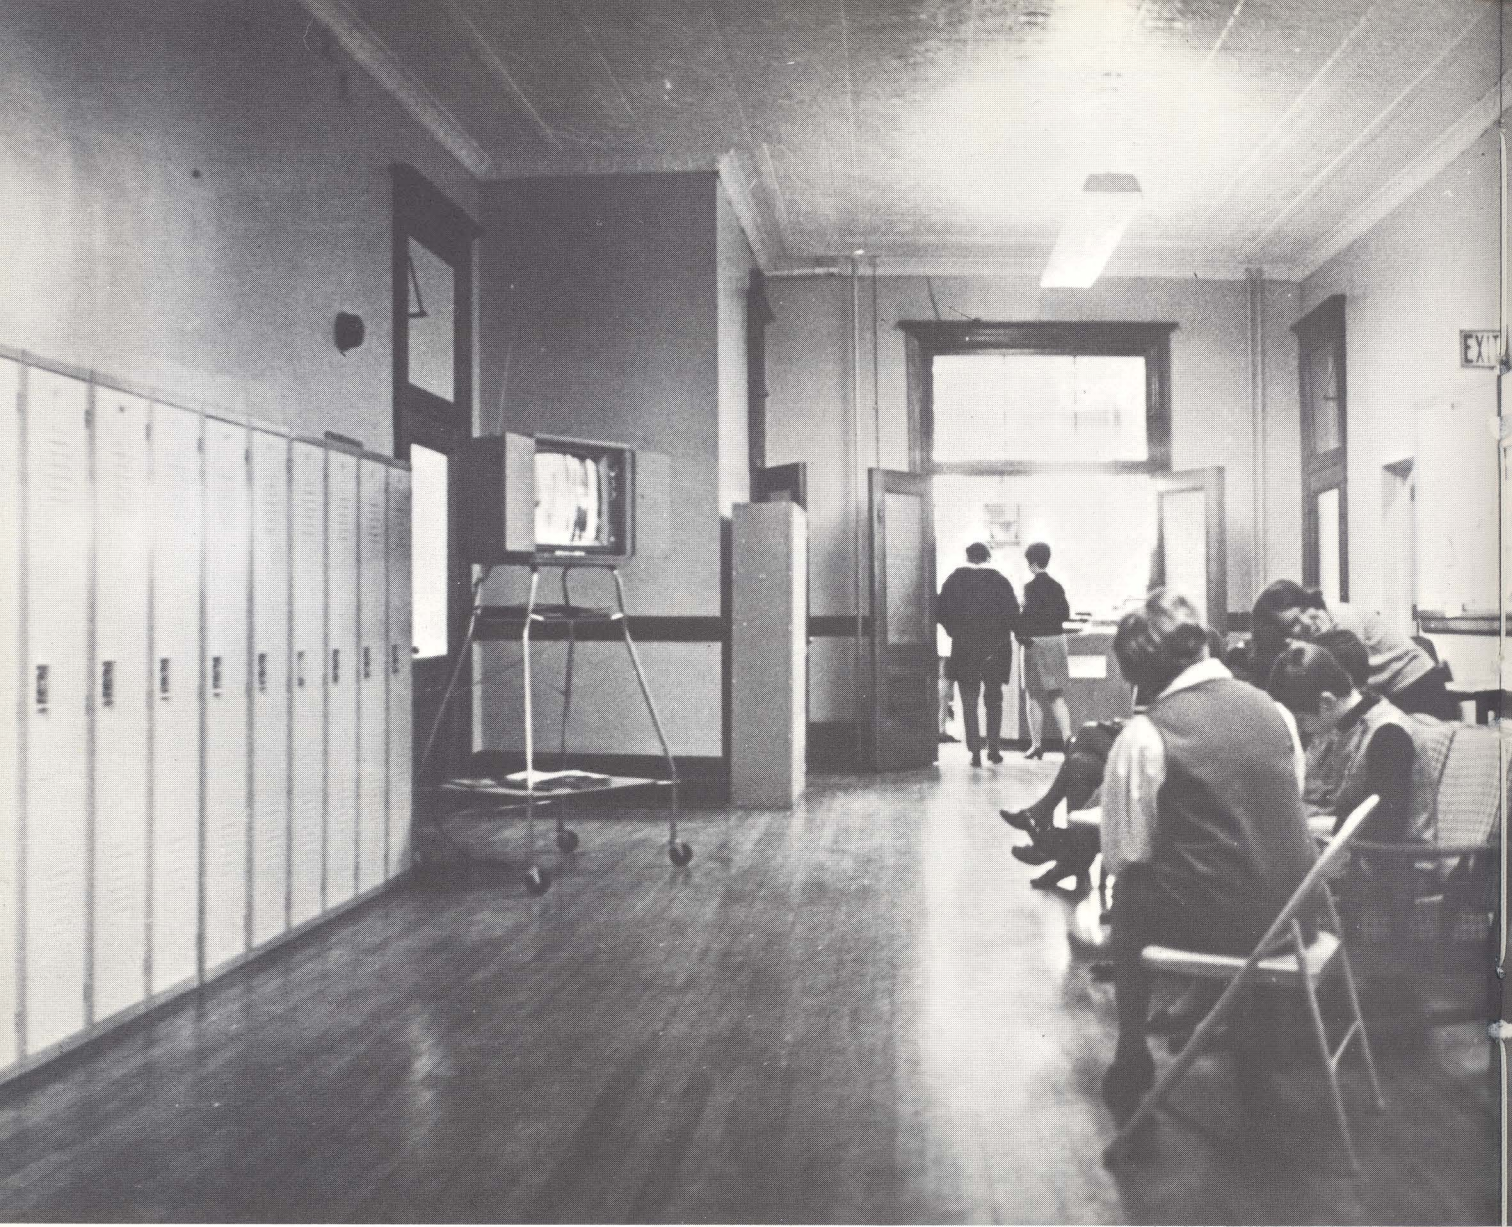

For now, "Au Revoir"

John Charbonneau.

TO THE GRADUATES OF NORTH BAY TEACHERS' COLLEGE 1970

You are about to begin a teaching career in the public school system of Ontario. Yours will be the privilege of helping to educate a new generation of Canadian citizens. In so doing, you will inevitably help to shape values that will influence our future. Your privilege carries with it a serious responsibility. It is imperative that you be teachers of quality. You must be men and women of principle so that in the Judaeo-Christian tradition of our society, you may transmit to your students above all else a love and reverence for God and for their fellow man.

The knowledge explosion may make it less important for the youngster of today to learn specific content of information (no matter how well confirmed) than to learn how to learn, i.e. to learn the secret of continuing to grow and change with evolving experience. The goal on the intellectual level is an ordered comprehension of "reality". This will provide the student with a wisdom consisting in an ability to make valid judgements thus contributing effectively to the well-being of society.

In addition, the young person's character must be allowed to unfold. For his decision-making power to develop, he must be exposed to fundamental virtues like honesty, loyalty, fidelity, generosity, courage, etc., values that motivate choices which are authentically human.

Finally, the young person must come to understand that his life is related to many kinds of society. Hence, the major responsibility of a teacher is to help the child learn the art of dealing with other people and the meaning of social concern. Herein does the teacher, motivated by sound religious principles, make his greatest contribution to society.

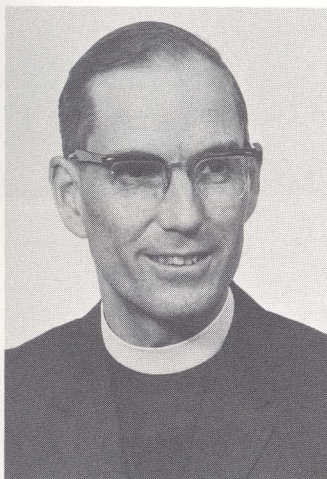

In seeking these ends, teachers serve the entire community and play an indispensable role in determining the future of our nation. Welcome to the teaching profession! May your career be rewarding and may you be blessed in all your efforts on behalf of youth--the hope of our future.
